PUC chairman opposes $400,000 well proposal

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

A recommendation to spend almost $400,000 on a new well for the village of Minden is being criticized by the chairman of the public utilities committee.

In a letter sent to council last week, committee chairman Ed Pergolas questioned the need to spend $392,000 to drill a new well on Bobcaygeon Road when an existing well has already been dug beside the municipal firehall, at a cost of only $45,387.

The search for an additional water source for the village began 18 months ago when the municipality was advised that the existing wells could not support future development.

Northern Eagle Engineering was hired and, after a series of locations and options were considered, a new well was drilled on St. Germain Street beside the firehall.

According to Pergolas, ensuing geology studies and water quality tests, carried out by Geo Logic Inc., showed that the well had adequate water supply and suitable water quality.

There were problems receiving approval from the Ministry of the Environment however, and earlier this year the municipality discharged Northern Eagle and tendered for a new engineering consultant. Up to this point $45,387 had been spent on the new well, out of a reserve fund of $160,000 set aside for the project.

A new company, Triton Engineering, was hired at a tendered price of $47,000 to do a complete report and make recommendations on a preferred location for a new well.

Concerns were raised about the water quality at the St. Germain well because the levels of turbidity, (murkiness due to suspended solids), exceeded provincial standards.

Geo Logic offered to return to the site, run a seven-day pumping test in an effort to clean the water and then re-test the well. The company said it would perform the work at no additional cost.

Because of the contract with Triton Engineering, the (more on page 4)

OHIP changes threaten flight of snowbirds

by Susan Grober

Ontario's annual payments to American health care institutions have more than doubled in the last three years, and recent changes to provincial regulations for health coverage were made to stop abuse of the system.

But for those local residents known as snowbirds, it means the rates for insurance coverage have skyrocketed.

Last year, OHIP paid a total of $225 million in medical costs - $204 million of which went to hospitals, and $21 million for physicians fees - in the United States.

In response, as of October 1 the Ontario Ministry of Health has limited payments to an average of what is paid for the same service in Ontario.

Like most other snowbirds, Bea and Jim Hindle found the cost of their Blue Cross coverage has tripled as a result of the changes, from about $500 to $1,500.

"It's disgusting, as far as I'm concerned," says Mrs. Hindle. "It's an awful blow. It's awfully high for seniors, because many only have their pension cheques to live on, and they don't get pay increases like those who aren't retired. It's a shocker."

"We were seriously considering not going down at all," he says. "We don't have an awful lot of money, and we may have to watch our spending now."

Mr. Hindle says the couple has been shopping around, and finally opted for a plan from a local bank which only costs about $550.

However, this rate was offered until October 1, and Mr. Hindle feels it would probably increase after this date.

A number of the couples' (more on page 5)

Last weekend local Scouts, Cubs and Beavers were out selling apples as part of their fundraising efforts. On Friday, Matthew Heffer, Michael Hamilton, Ian MacKenzie and Curtis Barry, shown above, were among the Scouts who gathered in the basement of St. Paul's Anglican Church to polish the apples and place them in baskets before hitting the streets.

Minden lot levies should triple: planner

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Lot levies in the village of Minden should be tripled in order to pay for increased municipal services in the next 10 years, Minden council has been told.

At last Thursday's council meeting, municipal planners Jim Dymant and Dana Anderson presented a development charges study to council. The study, required by provincial legislation, catalogued the amount of money the township can expect to spend on capital improvement in the next decade and determines how much of that amount should be paid by new developments.

Currently the municipality charges $1,000 for each lot created through severance or plan of subdivision. In order to keep pace with the cost of expanding services as the community grows, Dymant suggested new lots created within the village should carry a levy of $3,200 and rural lots should have a $700 development charge.

Dymant also recommended that industrial and commercially zoned lots should be exempt from development charges as a way to encourage commercial and industrial development.

The Development

Charges Act was introduced by the Ontario government in 1989. It requires municipalities to justify the amount of money being collected from new developments.

Under the Act, municipalities must undertake a study to determine the cost of expanding municipal services as a result of the community's growth, and determine how much of this cost should be borne by developers.

"New development costs you money," Dymant told the councillors. "If you don't charge lot levies to offset the cost, people already living here will have to pay for it. It's really fair to existing residents that new developments pay their own way."

In conducting the study Dymant and Anderson predicted, with the help of municipal staff, the capital improvements the municipality would have to make to accommodate growth in the 10 years.

Among the findings were:

- * An increase of 713 households, representing 2,069 new residents, in the township by the year 2001;

- * The need to purchase a third fire truck and expand the fire hall;

- * A projected increase in (more on page 4)

Many new faces will be seen at council tables

Commentary

With the municipal elections still a month away, it's already obvious that there are going to be significant changes in the local political arena.

Nominations for candidates closed last Friday and a number of people have been acclaimed to positions, many of them newcomers to Haliburton County politics.

At least nine new faces will be around the 17-member county council table, and there could be as many as 11 new faces.

Gone will be Stanhope Reeve Harry Davis, Dysart Reeve Bill Davis, Lutterworth Reeve Carol Puffer, Sherborne Reeve Don Shortreed, Cardiff Reeve Mac Peters, Bicroft Reeve Bill Howe, Dysart Deputy-Reeve Lloyd Leadbeater, Minden Deputy-Reeve Mike Maher, and Cardiff Deputy-Reeve Keith Murphy. Each of these candidates is either not running in the election or has chosen to run as a municipal councillor.

Snowdon Reeve George Simmons,

Monmouth Reeve Keith Tallman, Lutterworth Deputy-Reeve Jim McMahon and Sherborne Deputy-Reeve Hans Liebmann are the present county councillors who have been returned by acclamation.

Joining them at the table will be Lutterworth Reeve-elect Cam Ecclestone, Bicroft Reeve-elect Hans Stevens and Stanhope Deputy-Reeve-elect Eleanor Harrison, three new-comers to county council who have also been acclaimed.

In Minden, each position is contested and voters will have plenty of candidates to choose from.

Incumbent reeve Bern Berry is being challenged by former reeve Ray Moore, councillor Verne Graham, and Ron Gambell who is a past reeve of Lutterworth and a former warden of the county.

Graham concerned over conditions within county

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Minden reeve candidate Verne Graham says his experience in accounting and business will help him deal with the financial problems facing local governments.

"My major concerns are the conditions within the county," he said. "I feel I have the knowledge, not only of the municipality but of the county in general, and my previous background will help me to help council."

Graham, who is currently a member of Minden council, was the first of four people to declare his candidacy for the municipality's top position. He will be facing incumbent Bern Berry, former reeve Ray Moore and Ron Gambell.

Like many other declared candidates, Graham has concerns about spending at the county level and says the process by which the county arrives at its annual budget must be reformed.

"A 35 per cent tax increase is not a good situation to find yourself in," he said. "There is the potential for another equally large increase next year."

Not only will the county have to trim its spending, Graham says budget deliberations must be done in public.

"We need a more open process where the information is made available to the public and is presented in council and talked about," he said.

County restructuring one of Moore's main goals

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Ray Moore, who resigned his position as Minden's reeve in March, has decided to try to return to municipal politics.

Moore stepped down after suffering a heart attack but has now been given a clean bill of health by his doctor and has announced his candidacy for reeve.

"I feel better than I've felt for 20 years, both mentally and physically," he said in an interview last week. Moore says he is too young, and too full of energy, to retire.

"I enjoy council and I love working for people. Something inside a person makes you want to give back to the community."

One of the first issues Moore wants to address is the need to restructure the county government system in Haliburton county to get rid of duplication and an excess of administration.

"There are 57 councillors in Haliburton County and 60 to 70 employees in administration, all concerned with their own bailiwicks, that's where the problem lies," he said. "For a year-round population of 13,000 we have one awfully huge administrative wage package, about $4 million a year."

Minden reeve candidate Ray Moore

By reducing the number of individual municipalities through amalgamation, Moore says the county would save money by having to support a smaller bureaucracy.

The only people affected by amalgamation will be the politicians and the bureaucrats, (more on page 14)

The deputy-reeve's chair is being sought by Lewis Stevens and Bob Sisson both of whom currently serve as councillors.

With the three present Minden councillors all seeking higher positions, the field is open for five rookie candidates: Grant Plooard, Jean Anthon, Francine Newton, Gerald Rome and Jim Garbutt.

Snowdon voters, on the other hand, have been handed a municipal council with all positions filled by acclamation.

Both the incumbent reeve Simmons and deputy-reeve Dwain Wruth are returning (more on page 14)

Raging fever puts Stevenson on critical list

by Susan Grober

As of Saturday, Minden resident Judy Stevenson had a turnaround after being placed on the critical list in the intensive care unit of a Baltimore hospital, where she had a spine operation late last month.

Stevenson's temperature rose sky high after having another operation on Wednesday to treat a bleeding ulcer which was discovered last week, and family members were called down to see her at John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Maryland.

"Everything's gone right downhill for her," said Stevenson's brother, Garwood, on Friday. "We're trying to get a flight out to see her this weekend."

The "Operation Judy Fund" campaign raised money to help pay for an operation to straighten Stevenson's back, which is affected by her severe osteoporosis.

The initial operation on her spine was performed on September 20.

Following the operation, Stevenson could walk with assistance. But a while later she lost the ability to move her legs, and required emergency surgery on October 2.

During that operation, it was found that Stevenson had developed an infection on all the joints where doctors reset and replaced bones.

Garwood said his sister had a high fever as the result of this infection, and the fever was just starting to go down when she had the laser treatment on October 9 for the bleeding ulcer.

After this, she again developed a high fever, and it hasn't gone down since, says Garwood.

Because of this, Stevenson was moved into the intensive care unit on Friday morning.

"She's been in an ice pack all night, but they still haven't brought the fever down at all," said Garwood.

"I really don't know what's going to happen. She just got feeling a wee bit better and then, bang, everything went down."

Stevenson's mother, Velma, has been staying at Ronald McDonald House nearby the hospital, and visits her daughter from morning until night.

Bonnie Thorne, a family friend who lives

Judy Stevenson was thrilled with the community's help in fundraising who has a cottage at Halls Lake. "God bless her, I hope everybody says a prayer for her."

As of Saturday, however, Thorne was allowed to see Stevenson, who was awake and able to visit with Garwood, his wife Debbie, and Stevenson's friend Linda Thorpe, who all managed to get a flight to Baltimore on Friday night.

Stevenson had been feeling down after facing all these hurdles, said Thorpe, whose husband Bernie originally drove her, Judy, and Velma to Baltimore.

"It's just been one thing after another going wrong," said Thorpe. "It really hasn't gone the way we all hoped. I'm just praying and hoping everyday things will turn out all right."

Stevenson was told after the operation that she would have a 50 per cent chance of being able to walk again, said Thorpe. "And now she's got this other setback... It's not the good, hopeful news that everybody's been waiting for."

Stevenson has lived in Minden all her life, and had a job at Stedmans before she became too ill to work any longer.

Many members of the community are familiar with Stevenson's condition, because they helped raise the money needed for the operation.

Stevenson had the operation because her back problem had become so debilitating that she found it difficult to walk.

Because OHIP would only cover 75 per cent of the medical costs incurred outside of the country, Stevenson had to cover at least $4,500 American.

Thorpe said Reverend Jim Fast of the Minden Bible Church contacted a minister in Baltimore to visit Stevenson in hospital.

in Annapolis, Maryland, told The Times Friday night that Stevenson had been lucid after the laser treatment, until her fever rose.

Thorne drove an hour-and-a-half to see Stevenson on Friday, but wasn't allowed in the hospital room. Thorne was told Stevenson had been immobilized by doctors to keep her breathing steady.

Stevenson has been seen by many specialists, and they haven't yet found the infection which is causing the fever, said Thorne.

"It's a very, very sad case," said Thorne,

Bannon fund tops $4,600

The funds continue to pour in.

The Sandy Bannon Memorial Fund has topped $4600. Fund organizer Ed Turner said the response from the community remains strong and enthusiastic.

The fund was established two weeks ago in memory of a Carnarvon area teenager. The money is earmarked for the installation of permanent night landing facilities for helicopters to service the Minden Hospital. The cost of the facility has been estimated at $45,000.

A portion of the money already collected will be spent shortly to cover the cost of a wind sock tower. Turner said that Lunaterra III, a company which erects satellite dishes, has volunteered labour, equipment and expertise to set the tower in place, however some funds will be needed to purchase materials.

A temporary system of reflective cones was recently installed at the helipad to enable emergency evacuation helicopters to land at night. The wind sock is also required, however, to give the pilots an indication of wind direction and speed.

While Turner and the fund raising committee is pleased the temporary system is in place, they are still adamant permanent lighting facilities must be installed. The committee has placed donation containers in most retail outlets throughout the county and has been soliciting larger donations from businesses and individuals. (Anyone wishing to send a donation directly to the committee can do so by mailing their cheque or money order, made out to the Sandy Bannon Memorial Fund, in care of the Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home, Box 427, Minden, Ontario, K0M 2K0.)

The committee has also decided that any amount over that required for the installation of the landing facilities will be used to enhance emergency service in the county. "We are most grateful for the support of the public with this drive," Ed Turner said. "This is one way the memory of Sandy will live on in our community."

municipality felt it could not accept the offer from Geo Logic. Triton agreed to flush the St. Germain well and attempt to clear the turbidity, but at a cost of $10,000.

At a meeting in September, the public utilities committee recommended that council instruct Triton to carry out the additional work on the St. Germain well before pursuing a new well site on Bobcaygeon Road, beside the two existing wells.

Pergolas says the committee minutes, including the recommendation on the St. Germain well, were discussed at a meeting of council but no action was taken.

On September 27, Triton presented its final report to council with a recommendation that a new well be established on Bobcaygeon Road at an estimated cost of $392,000.

When the $80,000 which has already been spent is considered, Pergolas says this will bring the total cost of finding a new well to almost half a million dollars.

The municipality has applied for a grant from the environment ministry to cover the costs of the work, but given the fiscal restraint of the provincial government, Pergolas is skeptical any money will be forthcoming.

The committee chairman is also concerned that heavy equipment used to drill the new well will disturb the pipes of the two wells already on the site.

"Is the municipality being best served by agreeing to the new well site, or is it better served by exhausting all avenues of the St. Germain Street well?" Pergolas asked in his letter to council. "The (public utilities committee) recommends the latter."

The environmental study report prepared by Triton which recommends drilling a new well on Bobcaygeon Road is available for public inspection at the municipal office before it is submitted to the environment ministry.

In order for municipal councils to charge lot levies after the end of November, they must pass a by-law outlining the charges as justified by the study.

Higher insurance rates tough on pensioners friends have been hit hard by the increase in coverage, he says.

"Quite a few people just aren't going down this year at all, and we just might not go down next year."

Ironically, many seniors travel to a warmer climate in the winter months to protect their health against the cold weather up north.

"I've got arthritis, and it bothers me in the wintertime, so I like to go down south," says Mr. Hindle. "This whole thing just threw a monkey wrench into our plans."

Mr. Hindle is understanding of the ministry's reasons for making the changes.

"I can see why OHIP put their rates up, because there are a lot of people who take advantage of the system," he says. "But the snowbirds generally aren't the ones to blame for this whole increase. Still, we're the ones that will suffer. It just seems unfair to us."

Intra Town and Country Travel owner Anne Larcade says most snowbirds who normally travel to the States through her agency are continuing to do so this winter.

"I don't know of many people who have been cancelling," says Larcade. "But I have many people coming to me for creative advice."

Larcade's travel agency has studied the coverage offered by many plans, and has found some small-print items which could leave people in the lurch.

One item she points out is that some insurance plans don't cover pre-existing illnesses.

Another is that some don't pay out immediately, but rather reimburse the insured person after they've paid their own medical expenses.

"We encourage those people to seek the advice of a knowledgeable travel counsellor or insurance agent," says Larcade.

Larcade sympathizes with the snowbirds, but says Ontario's new out-of-country payment policies are in line with those established in other provinces for many years.

In a statement to the press, health minister Frances Lanken says the changes

Blue Cross, even though the rate has more than tripled.

However, the couple is sympathetic with the government's reasons for limiting out-of-country health payments, saying: "The doctors and hospitals in Florida all know how 'rich the Canadians are,' quote unquote, so health care is really expensive. I know someone who had an emergency gall bladder operation in the States, and it cost $25,000."

won't be Blue Cross.

"We did a lot of scouting around, and looking at different policies," says Mrs. Heal. "The banks are giving some coverage for health, but we're not sure yet what to do. Hopefully we don't have any illness when we're down there."

Last year, the couple paid just under $500 for Blue Cross coverage. This year, they would have to pay more than $1,800 for the same coverage from Blue Cross.

have abused the system.

"I'm very disappointed in it, because we snowbirds don't go down to the States to have an operation, we go down for the warm weather," says Mrs. Heal.

Ross Farr says he and his wife have worked hard all their lives, and it was always his dream to save enough money to go south during the winter.

His Blue Cross coverage increased from about $700 to south for five years, and have only used $120 for medical services in that time," says Farr.

"I really don't think it's the seniors who are costing the province as much as those going to the drug and alcohol abuse centres. This is where I think it's wrong, sending money down for that purpose where we could be setting up centres here to treat those people."

Farr also objects to cases where people are sent to the States for bypass surgery, "because of the long waiting lists we have here."

Most seniors go down south to improve their health, rather than to receive costly treatments, says Farr.

"It's all about getting out of the cold, to try to live a longer life."

He has had two heart attacks in the past, and is bothered by the cold. "Even before I retired, I was wearing a mask for protection whenever I had to go outside during the winter," he says.

"But I feel sorry for the people who have a chronic illness, like asthma, or emphysema, and need to get out of the cold. If they go down, how is their insurance going to cover them?"

Farr isn't certain how the rates will increase next year, and whether he can afford to travel south then.

"We might have to cut down on other things to go next year," he says.

Farr investigated the cost increases in August, when he read about the changes in a seniors' newspaper which stated "only the healthy and wealthy can go down south."

"These increases are bad for seniors," he adds. "I guess you have to feel for those people who are just trying to live day by day on their pension."

Health ministry's new out-of country rates

Minister of Health Frances Lanken announced in May that the ministry would amend the rates paid for hospital treatment outside Canada.

All those planning to leave the country for any period of time were urged to purchase private supplemental health insurance, so that they are full covered in case of a medical emergency.

Beginning October 1, the ministry provides:

— $400 per day for high level medical care, such as surgery, high technology treatment, and frequent monitoring of a patient's condition; and

— $200 per day for rehabilitative and other less medically intense care, such as treatment for substance abuse, psychiatric illness and eating disorders.

The ministry will continue to pay for out-of-country physician services at Ontario rates only.

The new rates will also apply to Ontario residents travelling out of the country strictly for medical treatment.

The ministry will cover the full cost of out-of-country hospital treatment only if the service is unavailable in Ontario, and the patient is threatened in terms of life or irreversible damage to his or her health.

Physicians can apply to the ministry, on behalf of their patients, for prior written approval to obtain full coverage under these circumstances.

According to the ministry, patients seeking rehabilitation, cardiovascular or brain injury treatment will be assisted by existing assessment and referral services.

A network of 33 assessment and referral centres is available to help substance abuse patients find treatment within Ontario.

A provincial adult cardiac care network can advise physicians on the availability of services before out-of-country treatment is considered.

And brain injury patients will be directed to an assessment unit at Chedoke-McMaster Hospitals in Hamilton.

from the previous "open-ended subsidy to the profit-driven US medical system" will allow the province to preserve medicare and improve health services in Ontario.

Some people have little choice but to travel south because of health reasons — not because they seek medical care in the States, but because the winter weather up north is just too cold.

For this reason, one local couple (who asked not to be identified) will have to stick with deluxe coverage from

All agree, though, that they must scrimp and save in order to afford present, or future increases to their insurance.

"That much money is going to hurt. We're not going to starve. But I like to shop for the kids and grandchildren, and I don't know about that now."

Despite the changes, Gala and Cy Heal still plan to go south at the end of November.

They don't know yet what type of coverage they will have, but they know it

"So that's quite an increase," says Mr. Heal. "You can't blame them, because OHIP is going to pay them less."

"And I can understand why they have to do it," he adds. "I think we have one of the best health systems, and so many have abused it. There comes a time when we have to stop. And if there has to be changes, I guess we have to follow."

Still, the couple is frustrated that they must pay the consequences for others who $2,175.

So he opted for a plan with a local bank, but says "the big question is how it will be accepted down there."

Farr has some confidence in the fact that the insurance company which offers the plan has been in business for years. "It's not just a fly-by-night operation, just getting into the game for extra bucks."

But he's distressed that snowbirds are being affected by the changes.

The search is underway

Each year at this time, the community newspapers of the province begin a search which culminates in a ceremony in late winter and the recognition of youngsters throughout Ontario as worthy and contributing members of society. Once again, the search is underway.

The object of the search is Ontario's Junior Citizens of the Year. We believe there could be one or more in our community and we're asking you to help us find them.

The Ontario Junior Citizen of the Year award recognizes outstanding service to the community, heroic struggle in the face of great adversity, and meritorious behavior that rises above that we commonly see or expect of young people today. Generally, the awards committee selects 12 individuals and one group of young people as recipients of this special honour. They will be feted in Toronto, greeted by the Lieutenant Governor, who will present the award plaques, and receive official recognition at the annual meeting of the Ontario Community Newspaper Association.

The awards program is sponsored by the newspaper association, which represents community newspapers across the province, and Canadian Airlines International

The awards procedure acknowledges that any youngster worthy of nomination for this honour deserves recognition. Therefore all nominees will receive a certificate indicating the honour for which they have been nominated.

We are seeking the community's help in identifying youngsters worthy of this honour. Nomination forms and detailed qualification instructions are available at The Times office.

If you know of a youth, or group of young people, between the ages of 6 and 18, who have made a significant impact on the community, help us acknowledge their contribution by nominating them today for the Ontario Junior Citizen of the Year award.

UPDATE ON MINDEN'S NEW WATER-HOLE
THIS OR T'OTHER?
IT'S YOUR BUCK, CITIZEN - WHAT D'YOU THINK?

Failures of others help brighten his days

It has not been a good week so far, friends. For one thing, my trusty four-wheeled rustbucket has come down with an asthmatic and expensive sounding rasp in its carburetted throat. Then there's that phone message from the bank asking me to call back ASAP. Plus the envelope from Revenue Canada that I've been shuffling to the bottom of the In basket since last Thursday. And those shooting stars I see every time I bend over to tie my shoes...

Know what I like to do when my troubles start to pile up — besides writing a whiny column about it, I mean? I like to dig out a tome called The Book of Failures by Stephen Pile. It is subtitled "A Splendid Panorama of Non-Achievement" — and indeed it is. Chronicled on the pages

by Arthur Black

of The Book of Failures are the non-quite-feats and close-but-no-Panarella attempts of dozens upon dozens of fellow schlemiels whose run of bad luck makes me feel like changing my name to Lief the Lucky.

Such as? Well such as the members of a British scuba-diving club who decided to get themselves into the Guinness Book of World Records by taking the plunge into the most inaccessible body of water in the entire British Isles. Poring over maps, they found Scotland's remotest loch. They rented Land Rovers, Highland guides and mountain climbing gear. They drove 740 chassis-fracturing miles, clambered 7,000 feet up a mountainside. They found their loch, made camp, donned their scuba gear, took the icy plunge into the black, foreboding waters...

And discovered that the loch was four feet deep.

A person could have worse luck. A person could be Michael Fish. Michael Fish is — or possibly, was — a British television weatherman. Back in 1987, he took a call from some semi-hysterical viewer who had heard that a

Teacher speaks out against inaccuracies in tax column

Editor:

We would like to correct some inaccuracies which were stated in last week's "Community Tax Watch" written by Gary Kenney and John Beachli.

They stated that when teachers go on strike "they can afford to pay themselves strike-pay that is no different from their regular pay cheque." This is certainly not the case. In the most recent strike in Lambton County, teachers received Provincial assistance from their Federations of about $30 a day.

However, the more important information is that no one would strike for strike pay! It is always an extremely difficult decision to go on strike and particularly difficult for teachers because of the close relationship they have with their students. It is not a decision which is taken lightly or with ease, which Mr. Kenney and Mr. Beachli seem to be implying.

Fortunately, there has never been a strike in Haliburton County possibly due to the fact that both the Board and the Teacher representatives have always been able to negotiate new contracts in good faith.

Teachers are also taxpayers and concerned about the spending of their tax dollars.

Studio tour another success

Editor:

Another very successful Studio Tour has come and gone for 1991.

This tour is especially exciting for me, as I am on a tour bus with 45 people who mostly have never been in the Highlands nor on the tour. The comments are most favourable and most interesting. The Minden and Haliburton Museums are a great place to start the tour as it gives the people on tour a clear picture of what to expect and I notice the pencils come out and they start to pick the studios they want to visit first. Of course with 45 people to get on and off the bus it is impossible to get to every studio in one day. We have also been asked not to bring a bus to many of the studios due to turn arounds, narrow roads and not being able to cross certain bridges. The studios we are able to visit are most certainly enjoyed.

A letter received from Wauheiller, Germany after last year's tour offers some idea of the impact the tour has on our visitors. It read in part, "Our family and friends really enjoy the mugs we brought back from Ricky (Woods) studio. We brought home a lot of beautiful surprises and everyone was so pleased. Some people have already asked for more of the colourful scarves, so we'll be back in two years to enjoy another tour. We really enjoyed Minden... you must be very proud of your pleasant county."

This letter tells it all. Just a few studios have been mentioned and each one is as exciting as the next. The success story is obvious in that we have noticed the substantial increase in traffic and people. As we all watched the demonstrations, no words can express the detailed work each artist performs to achieve their own personal design and creation.

On behalf of Cardinal Tours, our congratulations on your success story and the contribution you all have made in making our Highlands so very unique.

Just say no to present system of fed politics

Editor:

No Brian, no John, no Audrey, no! no! no!

The point is - we need a political system that gives us real choice. We need the right to mark on a ballot "none of the above" and not find the ballot spoiled. We need this, and we need it now. Our lives, our country, our futures, everything is at risk.

People need government that really is the opinions of the masses and not the ways of the wealthy.

Government by Referendum.

Government by the Masses.

Government we can afford.

All wrapped up in his work

Sandy will always be with us

Editor:

There is absolutely no way a man like Ken would walk into a help centre. Men like him are admitting their problems while firing bullets at people. There is nothing worse to them than becoming exposed for what they are.

An abused person needs to be taken away from that environment. All they need is shelter and protection. And once a threat is made by the abuser, steps should be taken right away. Let him get better on his own. The victims not only can't help him, but they need help themselves. It's not the loss of his family that made him this way, it's the exposure and humility.

I'm grateful for the heli-pad being erected in Sandy's honor as I know it will help in saving many lives. She will always be with us.

As I stood in the hallway of the Minden

Hospital, I wondered, "Do they realize what a special person they have laying there in front of them? She is absolutely not going to die because it's not her time yet." But she did, and my heart broke.

No mother was as lucky as I. Every day, she gave me a strong hug saying, "Who's my favorite Mom?" Every night ending our talk with, "I love you just the way you are, Mom." Our relationship couldn't have been stronger.

Many times she told me how important her friends were to her, like family. We were happy to be with Tom and Renee and Cynthia. We were both healing nicely until this happened.

Sandy would not like me to talk about her relationship with her dad. It was hard, he had hurt her beyond pain. But she always felt sorry for him.

Woman's woes no excuse for shoplifting hurricane was on the way. "Nonsense!" snapped Mr. Fish. "There will be sea breezes and some showery airflow," he promised. On national television.

Within the hour, Britain had lost 300 miles of power cables, all rail transportation, access to 200 roads and one-quarter of all the trees in Kent. Contrary to Mr. Fish's assurances, it was a hurricane — the worst to hit the U.K. in three centuries.

My last piece of bad news comes not from The Book of Failures but the pages of last night's newspaper. It concerns the shoplifting trial of Florence Power of New Jersey.

Ms Power's psychiatrist testified that his client should be found innocent because she was under stress at the time of the incidents, due to a recent auto accident, a traffic ticket, a new-car purchase, overwork, husband's kidney stones, husband's asthma, hot flashes, vaginal itch, a bad rash, fear of cancer, fear of dental surgery, son's asthma, mother's illness, pressure of organizing parents' 50th wedding anniversary, need to cook

Thanksgiving dinner for 20 relatives, purchase of 200 gifts for Christmas and Hanukkah, stress of selling house without realtor, lawsuit against wallpaper cleaners, purchase of furniture that had to be returned and a faulty toilet.

I don't know about you, but a litany of misery like that automatically makes me feel better.

Not Ms Power 'though, I guess.

She's got one new woe to add to her list.

A shoplifting conviction.

Gilligan helps Home team salvage a tie

Battling back from a 5-1 deficit, Home Hardware salvaged a tie in the second game of the Men's Recreational Hockey League play Monday night. The tying goal came off the stick of Carey Gilligan with just 44 seconds left to play in the game. Gilligan led the come from behind equalizing effort by scoring two other goals, one unassisted.

Hartwick Construction took command of the game early notching five goals to Home's single, but buckled under the pressure mounted by Home as they drove to the dramatic finish. Scoring for Hartwick were Kevin Hamilton with a pair, Shane McKelvey with an unassisted goal and two assists, and Sid McKeigan and Barry Walker with singles. Walker also picked up an assist. Jeff Stamp assisted on two of the goals.

Dean Hewitt and Gary Harrison scored the other two goals for Home with Hewitt assisting on another. Also picking up assists were Dave Rogers with a pair, and singles from Louie Reynolds, Ken Barry and Glen Hall. Terry Crowe was in nets for Home while Rob Crowe guarded the Hartwick end.

Sid Stamp Fuels squeezed a single goal win out of The Times in a 3-2 contest. The two teams traded goals through the game with Stamp reclaiming the lead at the final buzzer.

Scoring for Stamp were Shawn Gilligan, whose unassisted goal in the final period gave his Race a test of endurance for Archie Stouffer students

Students at Archie Stouffer Elementary school took to the trails Thursday as the youngsters headed out on the annual cross-country race. The two kilometer race takes the youngsters from the playing field behind the school, up, what some have described as the "killer hill", then along a trail through the bush, emerging above the school and descending to the finish line, again on the playground.

The race was divided into classes based on the grade level and, according to the organizer, Mrs. Penny Obee, just about every student in the school, from grade four to eight, took part in the race. To their credit, all completed the test of physical endurance.

The top three finishers in each grade level were timed with the remaining runners being recorded in their order of finish.

A number of teachers, including principal MacKay Brydon, also took part in the run. Unfortunately their times have been lost due to a computer glitch.

The following are the results by grade level:

Grade Four: Boys: Blaine Saunders 7:41; Gaten Davis 7:43; Joshua Belcher 8:18. Girls: Leah Robinson 9:24; Kelly Ketner 10:08; Kate Heming 10:38.

Grade Five: Boys: Daniel Vanderlip 7:21; Adam Hopps 7:35; Nicholas Kulas 7:38. Girls: Naomi Stephenson 7:58; Sarah Bloomfield 8:50; Shelly Hirstwood 8:51.

Grade Six: Boys: Greg Simmons 6:55; Jason Horsley 7:05; Glenn McGuire 7:10. Girls: Alayna Reesor 7:37; Cheryl Smith 7:38; Jessica Belcher 8:00.

Grade Seven: Boys: Nathan Stephenson 6:50; Brian Willison 6:51; Kirk Smith 7:00. Girls: Brandon Jarvis 8:07; Julie Vanderlip 8:13; Rachel Brown 8:53.

Grade Eight: Boys: Chris Eskelin 6:13 (a new school record); David Raback 6:25; Tom Bagshaw 6:43. Girls: Amanda Stephenson 7:42; Janene Garbutt 7:50; Marita Schrader 8:27.

There was also a competition among the grade levels. The Classes with the best over-all times were 4A, 5A, 6C, 7B, and 8A.

Redmen defeat Fenelon

The Junior Redmen Soccer team turned in another win this past week as they travelled to Fenelon Falls.

They defeated their hosts 3-0 in a solid game which left little doubt about their dominance in this year's league.

Darren Parsons led the attack for the Redmen scoring two goals, while Lutz Haedicke scored the single.

The win clinches first place for the juniors and ensures them a spot in the playoffs.

The Senior Redmen played a strong game, but were unable to overcome the Falcon forwards, losing 3-1.

Justin Nimigon was the lone goal scorer for the Redmen, after being set up by Nico Haedicke.

The final game of the season for the kickers takes place this Wednesday in Lindsay when they face I.E. Weldon Secondary School.

Ethical hunting urged

Another fall has arrived and with the fall many residents start thinking about the upcoming hunting season. Every fall the local Ministry of Natural Resources and the O.P.P. offices receive many complaints from landowners about hunters trespassing on their lands. The actions of a few irresponsible individuals can affect the public's perception of all hunters.

Hunters caught trespassing can face charges under either the Trespass to Property Act or the Game and Fish Act. Penalties under the Trespass to Property act can range up to a $1,000. fine while those charged under the Game and Fish Act could be fined up to $25,000 and face hunting licence suspensions.

Hunters and landowners should both be aware of areas where entry is prohibited even if no signs are present, these include:

- a garden, field or other land under cultivation including: a lawn, an orchard, or a vineyard.

- premises on which trees have been planted and have not obtained an average height of more than 2 metres.

- woodlots used primarily for agricultural purposes.

- enclosed in a manner that indicates that landowners intention to keep persons off the premises or to keep animals on the premises.

Landowners wishing to post their properties have two options. They may use signs indicating that entry is prohibited such as "No Trespassing", "No Entry" or "Keep Out". If a landowner only wishes to keep out certain groups, signs stating "No Hunting" or "No Hunting without permission" would be sufficient. The Trespass to Property Act also allows landowners to use symbols or colour markings rather than signs. Red markings mean all entry is prohibited. Yellow markings indicate that entry is prohibited except for certain activities, and a person who wishes to enter must find out either from the signs of the landowner what activities are permitted.

The markings must be large enough for a circle 10 centimetres (4") in diameter to fit within.

Where signs or colour markings are used they must be posted so that they are clearly visible in the daylight under normal conditions from the approach to every ordinary point of access to the property.

Moose and Deer Jaw and Hide Collections

The Ministry of Natural Resources requires your help in collecting information on moose and deer populations in the Minden district. A crest will be given out for all moose and deer jaws submitted to the Ministry of Natural Resources Office.

You will receive a Fox 40 whistle in exchange for a suitably prepared deer or moose hide. For years we have given out blaze orange hats to hunters in return for their hides. This year, at the request of hunters, something different is being tried. The Fox 40 whistle is a newly designed device that does not require the familiar "pea" to create a high frequency sound, and can work in cold and wet weather. It is commonly used in sports and is gaining popularity as a safety device.

In Minden District, hides should be taken to the Minden Live Bait and Tackle Shop located behind the Minden Auction Barn at the intersection of Highway #35 and #121.

Ellen James talks with a client during the 1991 Halliburton County Studio Tour held on October 5 and 6.

James, who makes a large variety of leather goods from teddy bears to vases, is chairman of the organizing committee. She reports that the number of visitors on the tour doubled once again, as it has every year since the event was first held in 1988.

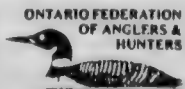

"Most of the artists and artisans are ecstatic about how well everything went," says James. "Some studios had close to 1500 people. And that high level of attendance was reflected in sales too..not double perhaps, but definitely a marked increase."

Planning starts soon for next year's Studio Tour. James and the executive will meet in another week, followed by a general meeting at the end of the month.

Hearty senior curlers enjoy wine, cheese

by Aileen Blears

"The wintry west extends his blast,"

And hail and rain does blow;

Or, the stormy north sends driving forth

The blinding sleet and snow."

So wrote "Rabbi" Burns of winter, but the senior curlers of Minden care not a hoot-mon for winter's storms. They welcomed the curling season on September 18 when one hundred and thirty former, present and future members got together for what was billed as a "wine and cheese" party.

There was wine and cheese in abundance, and many more tid-bits to excite the eye, and please the palate.

Angela O'Neill and her committee presented a table laden with a variety of mouth-watering treats.

It was evident that the senior curling club is alive and well and living it up in Minden. Muriel Harrington, and Harold McCarthy welcomed the members and guest. Those enjoying the company of the seniors for the first time, must have been impressed by the camaraderie. Everyone had a good time!

There will be a general meeting, for members only, at the curling club on Tuesday, October 15 at 7:30 p.m.

No wine! No Cheese! Lots of information that you will need to make your curling season a success; so plan to attend.

Moore prepares to tackle municipal, county politics again says Moore.

Although he realizes his opinions on amalgamation are not popular with councillors of smaller municipalities, Moore says he does not want to hide from difficult issues.

"It's important for people to know the direction I see we're going in," he said. "If they don't agree they can put someone else in."

One of the more controversial issues at the county level has been the development of a county official plan and the activities of county planner Mark Stagg.

Moore, who was on county council when Stagg was hired, says the original intention was to provide an expert local planning service for municipalities and stop thousands of dollars from leaving the county each year to pay for planning consultants.

The cost of the planning service would be charged to developers on a user-pay basis, says Moore, and the taxpayers would not have to pick up the tab.

But problems have arisen because municipal councillors have not accepted Stagg and turned down the idea of a county planning service, said Moore.

"It wasn't (Stagg's) fault, it was the politicians' problems. He never got a word in edgewise and the councils did not understand what he was attempting to do."

As far as the development of a county official plan is concerned, Moore says the issue is being clouded because the three municipalities which already have official plans, Dysart, Minden and Cardiff, want financial compensation for work done in the past.

On the issue of property taxes and market value assessment, Moore supports the effort by cottage associations to have education costs removed from municipal taxes.

"Market value assessment would not be a problem if we could get rid of the 60 per cent of our tax dollars going to the board of education," he said. "I'll work like a dog to get education off of property taxes. I don't know how to do it, but I'll be there to help."

When it comes to spending at the county level and the recent 35 per cent increase in the county levy, Moore says part of the problem stems from the fact that past councils have delayed implementing costly programs.

"For the past 10 years councillors have been aware that these things were coming, but they kept putting them off and hoped the province would pay for it," he said. "Now its coming down the pike that we're going to have to do it, and the costs have caught up with us."

Many changes ahead for county, municipalities and school board as well as councillor Ronald Burk. They will be joined by newcomers Walter Brown and Raymond Lymer as councillors.

In Dysart, the contest for reeve is between Chris Hodgson and Sid Cooper. A three-way race for deputy-reeve will involve Bob Nicholl, Jack Cox and Curry Bishop.

The Stanhope reeve race is between councillor Fred Gardner and Deputy-Reeve Ann Barker. With Harrison acclaimed as the future deputy-reeve, Murray Daniels is the lone incumbent councillor seeking re-election in a race which involves four other candidates.

Cardiff also features a wide-open race for all municipal council positions with two candidates each for reeve and deputy-reeve and nine people seeking the three councillor chairs.

The school board will probably undergo less drastic changes with the return of at least four or as many as 13 current trustees.

Incumbent trustees Lloyd Griffiths, Cheryl Murdoch, John Munro and Craig Petit have been returned by acclamation. In Minden the three present trustees are all seeking re-election but are facing stiff competition with four additional candidates filling out the field of seven.

In Dysart all four incumbents are also seeking re-election and face two challengers.

Other incumbent trustees facing competition are Stanhope's LeRoy Eager, and Monmouth's Nancy Dunford.

The only township where an incumbent trustee is not seeking re-election is Snowdon where Janet Donnery has decided not to run and Barbara Lester and Elsa Louise May are facing off in its only electoral contest.

"Psssst. Hey, what are you doing to get ready for winter?"
 "What do you mean? You don't get ready for winter, winter just happens."

"Come on. Haven't you raked and bagged your leaves yet? What about having your furnace tuned, caulking your windows and checking the weatherstripping? And what about your car? It is equally important to prepare your car for winter as you would your home!"

"Really?"

Cold temperatures really affect gas consumption. On short trips, in winter, a gasoline engine will use up to 30 per cent more fuel than in warmer weather. That's why it's essential to make sure your car's in top running order. This can cut both gasoline consumption and the emissions that harm our environment.

Anything we do to cut down on energy consumption helps our pocket books and our global atmosphere.

Getting ready:

— Buy a timer and use it to switch on your block heater two or three hours before you plan to drive. A warm engine means easier starting. A timer means you'll save electricity by not having to use the heater longer than necessary.

— Install a rear window defroster if your car does not have one. Use it only long enough to clear the window, then turn it off; the defroster draws power from the engine.

Maintenance

— Tune up your car in the fall.
 — Keep battery terminals and leads clean and dry. A little petroleum jelly will help to stop corrosion.

— Replace your heavier summer oil with a lightweight multigrade oil. A heavy oil will thicken in winter, making it harder for the engine to turn over. (Be sure to check your Owner's Manual for the recommended grade.)

— Don't forget to check tire pressure. This is just as important in winter as it is in summer. Properly inflated tires offer better fuel economy.

Driving

— Remove snow and ice from your car before you drive. This makes your car more aerodynamic, resulting in better fuel economy. It also means increased visibility for the driver.

— Allow only about 30 seconds of idling before driving your car. Drive slowly for the first few kilometres to allow your engine to warm up. At -12C, the average engine needs at least 15 km of driving to warm up, and a cold engine emits more toxic gasses than a warm one.

— Open a window after you step into a cold car. This helps clear the humidity and condensation on the windows.

— If your car has a manual transmission, downshift to increase your braking efficiency on a slippery road. Don't go directly into too low a gear, though, because this sudden braking movement could cause you to lose control of your car.

— Allow extra distance to stop in winter. Snow and ice can decrease your braking efficiency. Driving through deep slush or puddles may wet your brake rotors, slightly reducing braking capacity.

— Tell someone your destination and expected arrival time when travelling or driving infrequently-used roads. Be generous with your time estimates in the winter.

Winterizing your car and following these simple driving tips will increase your safety as well as cut down on energy consumption and help our environment.

What to do if you get stuck

The weather does not always cooperate and sometimes we find ourselves stuck in the snow or spinning on the ice. Here are a few simple tips to help you get out of a winter mess.

Dig the snow away from the wheels, using the shovel you should always carry in the trunk.

Position traction pads, old carpeting, scraps of cardboard, sand or salt under the tires (front wheels if a front-wheel drive, back wheels if a rear-wheel drive). Make sure the front wheels are straight. Ensure no one is standing where they could be struck by a traction aid ejected by spinning wheels. Keep spinning to a minimum by moving ahead in low gear.

Rock the car back and forth to give it enough momentum to get out.

Make your car as visible as possible by turning on the emergency flashers or by using a flare or warning light. A scarf tied to the car's aerial will also help.

It's no fun getting stuck, but if you keep your trunk stocked with helpful items like a flashlight, flares, woolen blanket, shovel, extra pair of gloves, fuses, booster cables, a bag of sand, traction pads, scraper and brush, matches and candles, a first aid kit with a quarter taped to it to call a tow truck, a tow rope, some gas-line antifreeze and a copy of The Car Economy Book, it should make things a little more pleasant.

RECYCLING MOTOR OIL MAKES SENSE

The family car is a big investment, and conscientious car owners make sure they get regular tune-ups and oil changes. Have you ever wondered what happens to the oil after it comes out of your car? While service stations reuse or recycle waste oil, many motorists who change their own oil pour it down the drain or put it in the garbage. Recycling used motor oil can save the environment from the millions of litres of waste oil that are discarded each year.

Canadians use about one billion litres of lubricating oil each year, of which roughly 425 million litres is available for recycling. This doesn't only include the oil from your car, but also lubricating oils for turbine and gear engines, hydraulic fluids (for instance, from transmissions), metal-working fluids and insulating fluids such as those found in transformers. The challenge is to use waste oil in a way that is less harmful to the environment.

Cradle to grave

Before buying products, it's important to consider where they come from and what will happen to them once you are finished using them. This "cradle to grave" approach helps identify the environmental impacts of the products you are buying. It also shows ways to reduce the environmental damage they can cause.

Consider the "cradle to grave" environmental impacts of motor oil. Most lubricating oils are manufactured from fossil fuel, a non-renewable resource. Therefore, using motor oil contributes to the depletion of our finite oil supply.

Each year 200 million litres of used lubricating oil are recycled through refining and other uses while 225 million litres disappear.

Both in its production and its disposal lubricating oil has a significant impact on the environment.

Re-refining oil

Recycling, or re-refining, used lubricating oil helps reduce these environmental impacts. While oil is doing its job lubricating your car's motor, it becomes contaminated with minute metal particles from engine wear, gasoline from incomplete combustion, rust, dirt, soot and lead compounds. Some of the additives break down during use and form corrosive acids. Re-refining removes these impurities in used oil and restores it to a reliable condition.

At this point, only 25 per cent of waste oil is re-refined every year. Some of the environmentally acceptable means of disposal for waste oil are expensive and do not make use of the lubricating value of waste oil.

Every litre of oil that is recycled is another litre removed from the waste stream and the environment. If more oil is re-refined, demand for new lubricating oil will decline. Not only will we protect the environment by dumping less, we'll reduce the environmental risks associated with the production of new oil.

Changing your own oil
The Canadian Association of Re-Refiners (CARR) studied oil recycling practices. Based on a survey in Edmonton, CARR found that 50 per cent or more of the car oil changes in Canada are done by "do-it-yourselfers." Only 21% of this waste oil is returned to service stations in the cities, while in rural areas 55% is returned.

Until recently, Saturday afternoon "do-it-yourselfers" were not encouraged to return the waste oil to a service station for recycling. Alberta, British Columbia and Ontario have now established a number of voluntary used oil recovery programs which are becoming more successful every day. Find out which service stations collect used oil for re-refining.

Used oil action plan

Governments and industry are looking at ways of collecting used oil. The Canadian Petroleum Products Institute (CPPI) responded to the challenge with an action plan for used oil and one of the targets is the "do-it-yourselfer."

As part of its action plan, and with the endorsement of all governments through the Canadian Council of Ministers of the Environment (CCME), CPPI established a committee of industry and government experts. The committee is now studying the services available in each region for used oil and will propose regional methods for collecting it from remote areas and the "do-it-yourselfer." This is the first attempt by industry and government to set a pattern for "cradle to grave" management of a product.

Your contribution

Besides making sure your waste oil is recycled, you can also contribute to protecting the environment by buying re-refined oil. You will thus encourage industry to reuse waste oil instead of constantly searching for more sources of fossil fuels. Environment Canada's Environment Choice Program has identified several motor oils that contain over 50 per cent re-refined oil and less than five parts per million of chlorinated compounds. Look for the EcoLogo symbol the next time you choose your oil.

With a little effort, we can recycle effectively and become a part of the solution in waste oil disposal.

TIMER REBATE AVAILABLE

For the second time in as many years, Ontario Hydro is offering rebates to purchasers of outdoor timers, in an effort to reduce the amount of electricity consumed by motor vehicle block heaters.

Part of Hydro's Power Saver energy efficiency program, $10 rebates will be given for timers purchased between October 1, 1991 and February 28, 1992. One of the Power Saver program objectives is to help consumers purchase energy efficient products to reduce their demand for electricity. Another is to help reduce the demand on the utility's system, especially during the winter peak period.

The average block heater user plugs the heater in upon his or her return from work and it stays that way for 10 or more hours. However, a vehicle's engine need only cuddle up to a block heater for two-to-four hours to get warm.

For that reason, Hydro's energy efficient experts are recommending that rather than leave the heater operating for 10 hours, using a timer can cut that operating time to two-to-four hours and save the user both electricity and money.

Not only do outdoor timers control the hours of operation of block heater timers, they can also be used with outdoor, security and Christmas lighting systems.

Outdoor timer sales across Ontario increased by 150 per cent, to 51,650 units, during last year's promotion period.

In order to obtain the refund, purchasers may return a form, similar to Hydro's compact fluorescent bulb rebate form, which will be available from participating retailers. By mailing the form to Ontario Hydro, purchasers will be refunded $10, by mail, in four to six weeks.

In fact, the energy efficiency experts point out that a motor vehicle block heater draws about 520 watts of electricity — the same amount consumed by a clothes washer or a refrigerator-freezer.

Graham speaks out against family violence

'It's a major problem... but it's not being talked about'

(from page 2)

With a poor economy and high unemployment, the county's social services department has been financially strained this year. Graham says the worst is yet to come.

"There is going to be a big drain on the welfare system this winter," he says. "Unless something changes drastically, there is going to be a big crisis."

Being concerned about taxes and government spending, Graham supports the efforts of the local taxpayers coalition.

"I'm very much in favour of what they're doing. The coalition is one of the biggest assets to county and local municipal government to come along in a long time."

Not only will the coalition help keep local expenditures under control, Graham says the group, through its affiliation with the province-wide coalition, will put pressure on the provincial government to reduce those costs the local councils do not control.

As an added benefit, Graham says the coalition has gotten people interested in the operations of local government. "It's so nice to see people sitting through council meetings. Being on council can be a lonesome position because so few people have any interest in what is going on," he said.

Another county issue Graham wants to address is the proposed county official plan.

As it stands now, Graham says the official plan is a "confusing matter which shouldn't be coming up in the manner in which it is."

Before the county can develop an overall official plan, Graham says all 10 municipalities should have their own planning documents. So far, only Cardiff, Dysart and Anson, Hindon and Minden have official plans.

Each municipality should develop its own official plan in cooperation with neighbouring townships to ensure compatibility, he says.

Once the 10 documents are in place, the combined policies will constitute the basis for a county official plan.

On the issue of market value assessment, Graham predicts that the provincial government is going to implement the system across Ontario whether municipal governments want it or not.

Until he sees information about how market value will affect ratepayers in Minden, Graham says he can't make a legitimate decision about whether the county should go ahead with reassessment or wait for the province.

Economic development has been a matter for much discussion, especially at the county level. Graham says there is a great potential for development in Haliburton County, as long as the focus is kept on the tourist industry.

"The emphasis has to lie with tourism. We have clean air, clean water and good lakes. That's what we should be developing."

While many people talk about the need to establish light, clean industry in the county, Graham says this option is impractical. "To bring materials from Toronto, make a product here and then ship it back to Toronto doesn't make sense. It's only adding to the cost of production," he says.

With an economic emphasis on tourism, Graham thinks the Chamber of Commerce, not the county, should be responsible for marketing the Haliburton Highlands.

"The county is tied up with many, many other problems. Can the county afford to hire five new staff members and be a tourist development board?" he asked. "We don't have the facilities and there are too many costs involved. I'm not saying it's impossible, but it's not practical at this time."

Graham says the county should continue to pay the Chamber for marketing and promotional activities.

As far as the municipality is concerned, Graham wants to ensure that new criminal court facilities are found to keep court services in the village of Minden.

The current lease with the province for court facilities in the municipal building expires in December 1992 and Graham says an inventory a new location for facilities will have to be found before that time.

Another issue Graham feels strongly about is the need to increase awareness about family violence in the community.

"I think the local municipality and people have to be heavily involved in the Family Violence Network," he said.

"It's a major problem in the County of Haliburton but it's not being talked about. One of the first things we have to do is get people talking about it."

Graham was first elected to municipal council in 1985. He was defeated in the 1988 election but was appointed to council earlier this year when Reeve Ray Moore resigned.

He has been a member of the planning advisory committee for the past five years and is involved with the local architectural conservation advisory committee and the Minden Horticultural Society.

Verne Graham is one of four candidates for reeve of Minden.

Big buck contest

A contest/raffle to help fund the purchase of an air compressor unit for the Haliburton Fire Department is being sponsored by two stores in that community. Kennedy Sport and Tackle and the Butcher Block and Deli have combined forces in sponsoring a hunting season big buck contest.

Winners will be selected in two ways. As the name implies, one winner will be based on the largest buck, by weight, taken during the hunting season. Weigh-ins will take place at the Butcher Block. The hunter with the largest buck will receive half of the proceeds from the ticket sales.

Ticket holders will also have a chance to win. A draw will be held for a Winchester Trapper 30/30 rifle, while a second draw will be held for a free cut, wrap and freeze of a deer.

Proceeds from the draw will go toward the purchase of an air compressor to be used for refilling the fire department's air packs.

The tickets are $3 each and will be on sale until November 3. The draw takes place at 4 p.m. on that day. Tickets are available at Kennedy Sport, the Butcher Block and Bruce's Barber Shop in Haliburton.

Total impact must be considered

Even as the Cree people of northern Quebec wage a battle with Hydro Quebec and the Quebec government to stop construction of more dams in their territory, their relatives, the Cree of northern Ontario appear to have been granted a temporary reprieve by Ontario Hydro on their plans to build more dams on the Moose River system.

But each province regards its plans as its own business. We assess the impact of human activity on a piecemeal basis that seems to suggest whatever we're looking at, whether a dam, new coal plant, or another logging road, can be examined by itself in isolation from anything in its neighbourhood.

But as we learned, for example, when B.C.'s Bennett Dam was built, 1,200 kilometres away from Alberta, it has a severe impact on the world's largest freshwater delta.

Everything on the planet is interlinked in a complex way into a single, finite global biosphere. From this perspective, it's clear the human borders we construct for political, social or economic reasons do not conform to the geological, climatic and ecological factors that govern the distribution of animals and plants.

When we carry out an environmental impact assessment (EIA), we should at least attempt to look at whole ecosystems. Thus, the territory of the Cree in the provinces of Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba surrounds Hudson and James bays. Those two bodies of water make up an immense inland sea whose physical and biological properties have been little studied. As the marine current flows around the bays, it picks up water from the great rivers that are so attractive to our electric companies.

But that cycle of fresh water being stored by the winter freeze and then released in the spring melt, is critical for the planktonic blooms that are the base of a food chain that supports fish, mammals, birds and humans. Dams disrupt that cycle.

Phase I of Quebec's James Bay hydroelectric project has already flooded more than 10,000 square kilometres of land. This has destroyed wildlife habitat and submerged Cree burial sites and traplines. In essence, a massive engineering experiment has been carried out yet with no EIA on it and more dams are being proposed.

The debate raging over Phase II of Hydro Quebec's plan, concerns the EIA on the roads and dams only on the Great Whale River system.

The scientific merits of EIAs are dubious when we have so little basic knowledge of the biology, hydrology and geology of James and Hudson bays.

Even if such information were available, it doesn't (more on page 23)

Yes I can!

Award will honour exceptional children

The Victoria-Haliburton County Council for Exceptional Children has recently established the YES I CAN! Award Program to acknowledge the achievements of children and youth who have overcome barriers caused by disabilities; to encourage these children and youths to seek their highest potential; and to increase public awareness of these disabilities, aspirations, and personal qualities.

The nominees will be recognized in one of the following areas: academics, arts, athletics, community service, employment, extracurricular activities, or independent living skills.

Thirty-five top award winners from Canada and the United States will be recognized at the C.E.C. International Convention in April, 1991. All nominees from this area will receive certificates which will acknowledge the young person's special achievement.

Any person who is aware of a youth between the ages of four and 21 worthy of recognition in any of the aforementioned categories may submit a nomination. The nomination forms may be obtained by contacting Lynn Hatfield (324-6776) in Victoria County, or Marilyn Kuno (457-2950) in Haliburton County.

No problem is isolated

make sense to act as if the effects of each set of dams is independent of those already completed in Phase I or in other provinces.

They all impinge on a single marine ecosystem! We should be looking at the CUMULATIVE effect of all of the dams and development affecting the James-Hudson Bay eco-complex.

There should be mechanisms and structures like the International Joint Commission on the Great Lakes to carry out such transprovincial assessments. On so many issues - clear cut logging of a BC old growth forest, oil exploration in the arctic, fishing policy in the face of declining stocks - we act as if each is a local matter to be resolved as an isolated problem.

In failing to assess the total ecological context within which the issue falls, we nickel and dime the biosphere to pieces.

This applies just as much at the transnational level. We believe for example, that the vastness of Canada somehow buffers us against the air pollution of Los Angeles or Mexico City and that the severe air pollution created by traffic congestion and geological formations is really THEIR problem, not ours.

Yet air is part of a single entity that is contributed to and partaken of by all living things on earth. Bad air in Mexico City or Los Angeles may be more concentrated around their environs, but life everywhere will eventually be exposed to it.

The solution to pollution is NOT dilution because in a finite sphere, there is no way to escape the buildup of whatever we put into it over time. This is also why the fate of huge areas such as the boreal forests of the prairie provinces, B.C.'s coastal rain forests, and James and Hudson bays is of vital interest to people in the U.S. and Europe. Indeed, everywhere on earth.

And that's why we are so concerned about the future of the rain forests in tropical areas of the planet. We need mechanisms to attempt EIAs that transcend borders and especially that take into account the cumulative impact of what has already been done around the world. The Cree battles are a good example.

$112,000 donation highlights evening

Rotary praised for community commitment

The Rotary Club of Minden is doing an excellent job of serving the community, according to District 7010 Governor Don Fraser. The Governor, a member of the Rotary Club of Sudbury, made his annual visit to the club last Monday and praised the members for their commitment to meeting the needs of the area they serve.

"The work this club has done is tremendous," the president said as he addressed the gathering. "That was evident tonight in your $112,000 donation for the expansion of the community centre." Earlier in the meeting Fraser had presented Reeve Bern Berry with a cheque in that amount on behalf of the club. The donation fulfilled a commitment made a number of months ago when the municipality announced plans to go ahead with the addition. The original donation had been for $100,000. The additional $12,000 represents the interest earned on the money since it was earmarked for the project.

Fraser also had praise for the club's work in youth activities. He pointed to the students exchange program (the club is currently hosting a student from Belgium, Olivier Lenzoni and is sponsoring a local student, Dustin Davis, for a year in Spain), as well as supporting students to attend citizenship and technology conferences.

The Rotary Club of Minden took advantage of the visit of District 7010 Governor Don Fraser October 7 to present the municipality with a donation of $112,000. The money will assist with the cost of the addition to the community Centre. Club President Ron Gambell, left and District Governor Don Fraser, right, made the presentation to Reeve Bern Berry.

He challenged the members to look beyond these successful programs and find new ways to serve the community. He said opportunities to become involved in helping the elderly, the environment, literacy, those suffering substance abuse and the unemployed are all areas where the local organization could find projects for their talents and financial resources. He said the club should enlist the support of the community to extending its areas of service.

He pointed out that on a world-wide basis Rotary, with its more than one million members, has had a massive impact. In particular he said the success of the drive to eradicate polio and four other childhood diseases in third world countries has proven how valuable a contribution the combined forces of the organization can be. "You are fortunate to be a part of this world-wide service club," he told the Rotarians.

Minden President Ron Gambell thanked the District Governor for his words of encouragement and presented the Governor with a gift on behalf of the membership.

Residents enjoy colour tour to Dorset

On Saturday, September 28, a dear, dear friend took me to Lindsay to do some shopping. While I was away, May, Roy and Jackie came to see me. As I was not home, they came back on Sunday. Needless to say, I was happy to see them.

Sunday night chapel was taken by Rev. John Burgess with Alice Jones on the organ. We sincerely thank both, John and Alice.

Monday being the last day of the month, the Hyland Crest Auxiliary held the first meeting after the vacation period. Loose ends from the last meeting and plans were made for the events coming up. In the evening, Tom McAllister showed the movies. They were very interesting and we thank Tom greatly.

Rev. Brian Parker conducted Tuesday morning chapel service and we thank him very much.

In the afternoon activities held an apple-fest in the craft room. Doris conducted a discussion on the history of the apple. This was followed by a tea of apple sauce, crab apple jelly made from the apples from the tree seen from Apple Blossom Lounge window and picked by Harry Hughes, preserved crab apples, apple pie and tea biscuits. Jelly made by Linda Fry, canned crabs by Doris Robertson, pie by Winnie Barnum, biscuits by Louise Bishop. Fruit was prepared by other residents, apple sauce by Tanya Little. We really enjoyed tasting all the apple products.

Wednesday, the bus was loaded at ten o'clock for a bus drive to Dorset. We had lunch in a hotel near Robinson's Store, that we really enjoyed. While we were having lunch a bus load from Kinmount came in. Several of our residents knew some of them. After lunch we went to Robinson's Store for about an hour. It rained most of the day but we enjoyed it anyway. The coloured leaves were beautiful. We thank Doris and Linda and volunteers Bonnie Fullan, Helen Donaldson, Lorraine Swinson. In the evening we had reading by Dianna Morris.

The tea party on Thursday was provided by the Carnarvon United Church. It was delicious. Eleanor Hamilton played lovely old favourites on the piano and we sang along. To close, Grace Coburn sang "Bless This House" beautifully. The Carnarvon ladies were Eleanor Hamilton, Eleanor Turk and Barbara Sills who we do sincerely thank.

Friday was Happy Hour in the Auditorium. Mr. and Mrs. Pickard provided lovely music on the accordion.

Do you know someone we should honor?

We admire kids with physical and other disabilities who face their challenges and say "Yes I Can!" And we want to honour each and every one of them with a Certificate of Achievement.

They may be working hard at school or jobs, or participating in sports, arts, scouting, or other activities. Or they might be mastering everyday tasks that are difficult for them, like dressing themselves or brushing their teeth.

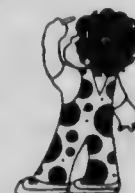

Tell us about a young person you want to honour and encourage, and we'll send you a Certificate of Achievement. All that's required is that the person be from two to 21 years old, and have a disability and a "Yes I Can!" attitude.

'Fee for service' could be the answer

Over the past few weeks, there have been various proposals from different civic candidates about what to do with the Chamber of Commerce.

There has been reference to the need to keep the County Information Center open forgetting that it is first of all, the Chamber of Commerce Office, there to serve not only the Highlands, but the needs of its members. That building is the Chamber's as long as The Haliburton Highlands' Chamber of Commerce retains its charter as a Chamber of Commerce.

Others have suggested making the Chamber Manager a County employee. This would be a quick fix, but in the long run would be disastrous for our Chamber. There is no Chamber of Commerce or Board of Trade that I know of that is run by a municipal employee.

The Chamber of Commerce movement in Ontario and Canada is based on the premise of it being an organization of people in business who want their views and concerns represented on a municipal, provincial, and federal level. Although this Chamber has traditionally focused more on tourism promotion, it still retains that role of being an influential lobby group. It can and has spoken out in support of different issues of a local and provincial concern, i.e. the hospital, etc.

How could it speak out if the manager is a municipal employee accountable to County and not to the members? Who would the manager represent, County or the members? It would become an intolerable situation. The spirit of volunteerism that is the Chamber's greatest strength would soon disappear if our Chamber Office just became a government agency.

What can work is a "Fee For Service" approach. The Chamber agrees to undertake on a contract basis certain named activities of tourism promotion and community service. The Chamber Board is accountable to the County that these agreed upon services will be done. Staff including the manager is accountable to the Board to ensure that these services are being implemented. If the County wants more emphasis on different sectors of the economy, then this can be discussed as part of a long range plan. It is imperative that this agreement take the form of a three year agreement. Proper long term planning cannot take place, i.e. putting in place people with skills to implement the services, if it is in constant yearly turmoil whether funds are available or not.

Since the County has such a significant portion of our yearly budget, we have allowed a representative to sit on our Board as an ex-officio director. Our constitution calls for three ex-officio directors to be appointed by the Board. One of these places has traditionally gone to the County designated representative. If the County feels more representation is needed, then it is possible through this mechanism. This representative can have full access, as any Board Member, to meetings, budget proposals, hiring committees, and expenditures. The Board has always been open to input and concerns that the County may have. What has not happened in the past and hopefully will happen more in the future is that there will be an increased flow of information between these two organizations.

Such a "Fee For Service" approach rather than a grant is the best way the Chamber can work with County, yet retain its integrity and independence as a Chamber.

Society needs volunteers

Can you join us in our battle against cancer?

The Canadian Cancer Society is a committed network of volunteers that provide many programmes and services within this community such as emotional support to both cancer patients and their families, practical support, such as transportation to treatment centres, and a variety of education programmes to schools, the public and the business community. We also raise funds to provide and maintain these programmes and services, as well as to support cancer research.

We need capable and dedicated people to serve on our Board and committees, or to help in other ways such as door to door canvassing to carry out these valuable programmes and services. Would you consider becoming a part of our team? Speaking from personal experience, I am sure you will find that volunteering with the Society will be very rewarding. It is an opportunity to meet people, develop new skills, and of course, contribute to a worthy cause. Cancer afflicts one in three Canadians; we know it can be beaten!

Please call myself, Ben Jowitt, vice-president, at 887-3822 or the Victoria-Haliburton Unit office at 324-6896.

THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIPS OF ANSON, HINDON AND MINDEN

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING REGARDING A PROPOSED DEVELOPMENT CHARGES BY-LAW

Please be advised that the Council of the Corporation of the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden will be holding a formal public meeting in accordance with Section 4 of the Development Charges Act, S.O. 1989 on:

Friday, November 8, 1991 at 7:00 PM at the Council Chambers of the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden.

The purpose of this meeting is to discuss a proposed By-law which will permit the municipality to impose a development charge against new development. It is the intent of the municipality to ensure that the existing land owners of the Township do not pay for the costs associated with providing services for new development.

The Council of the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden has prepared a study which outlines the anticipated capital costs which can be attributed to growth over the next ten years on such items as:

1. Township Roads;
2. Recreation Facilities;
3. Fire Protection;
4. Administrative Facilities; and
5. Municipal Water and Sewer Services

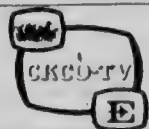

A copy of the study and the By-law are available at the Municipal office for review.

"R-2000 construction includes air-tight vapour seals around windows and electrical outlets."
Oliver Drerup, R-2000 Spokesperson.

What to look for when buying a new home.

For the past 10 years I've studied building techniques to discover how to build a better home. A home that would meet the needs of today's energy and comfort conscious home buyers. What I learned was that one home — the R-2000 home — is your best choice. Why? Well, there are a lot of reasons. Here are just a few.

Superior Construction

- greater attention to detail prevents excess air leakage.
- continuous operating ventilation system offers superior indoor air quality all year round.

More Comfort

- reduces cold spots and drafts, with even temperature from attic to basement.

Lower Heating Costs

- the R-2000 home saves you money because it is more energy efficient than a conventionally built home.

Individually Inspected

- every R-2000 home is inspected and awarded a certificate if it meets R-2000 standards.

QUALIFIED PURCHASERS CAN RECEIVE A $2,000 REBATE FROM ONTARIO HYDRO.

THE BETTER-BUILT HOME

Look for the R-2000 Excellence sign at your local builder.
The R-2000 home, it's the "Better-Built Home."

The R-2000 program is supported by: Ontario Hydro; Ministry of Energy; Energy, Mines & Resources Canada.

A PROGRESSIVE NEW FLUID CONDITIONING TECHNOLOGY

- ✓ Positive Influence on Hydrocarbon Emissions
- ✓ No Maintenance
- ✓ No Moving Parts

- ✓ 90 Day Money Back Guarantee & Lifetime Warranty

When fuel passes through the Softron's Model #100 or #3050's alternating fields of influence, a frequency range is created. If the internal vibration of the hydrocarbon chains is in resonance with one of the frequencies within this range, their vibrations will intensify. As the vibration intensifies, the hydrocarbon chains are fractured into smaller, more easily combustible pieces.

CARDS OF THANKS

I want to thank Margaret Miller and my parents, Ken and Jeanne Bowron for the lovely meal they served us when I brought a van load of my residents from Cedarvale Lodge, Keswick, to Minden to view the fall colours. Also thanks to "Irene" and the weaving ladies for allowing us to use the Agnes Jamieson Gallery with such short notice when they knew we needed wheel chair access. Thanks to Stan Hill for opening the Museum and Bowron house for us to visit.

Heather Bowron
